SALISBURY STATE SEA GULL BASKETBALL

1987-88

Head Coaches

WARD LAMBERT: Ward Lambert is in his 18th season at the helm for the Gulls. Lambert has led the Gulls to winning seasons in five of his last six years. Included in his team's most recent accomplishments was a 23-6 record and a 10th place final National-ranking during the 1984-85 season and his 200th career victory during the 1985-86 season.

GAIL GLADDING: Gail Gladding's name will always be synonymous with greatness on the Salisbury State basketball court, as a holder of 12 Sea-Gull records, before becoming an All-Star for the New Jersey Gems of the Women's Professional Basketball League. Now in her third year as Head Coach of the Gulls, she has led them to a 31-21 record, and the Eastern States Athletic Conference's Southern Division Championship last year.

Assistant Coaches

DAN KING: Dan King is in his second year with the Gulls. Last year, as well as being the defensive coordinator, he also served as a recruiter and team academic counselor. As for his coaching experience, he has it at both the high school and college levels. As the academic counselor, he works with each player on an individual basis, guiding them through their course work and career development.

TIM PRICE: Tim Price is in his first season with the Sea Gulls. A graduate of Kempsville High School in Virginia Beach, Price went on to play for four years at Virginia Wesleyan, including 3 1/2 as a starter. Last year, his 12.5 points and six rebounds per game earned him Honorable Mention honors in the Dixie Conference.

DENNIS BRADFORD: Dennis Bradford is in his ninth year with Salisbury State's women's basketball team. An assistant coach for eight of the seasons, he led the Gulls to a 9-9 record, and the Gull Classic Championship during the 1980-81 season, during which he was the Gulls' head mentor, with a win over Virginia Wesleyan.

1987-88 Salisbury State Men's Player Profiles

DAVID BYER: David Byer is a scrappy player with a nose for the ball, who will probably make his mark with the Gulls as a tough defensive guard. This season expect Byer to contribute with his enthusiasm and his defense as his conceptual skills continue to grow.

RANDY DAVIS: Randy Davis has a drive to be successful in basketball, as well as educated about the game. While this may be a learning year for Davis, if he can apply the concepts to the physical talent he possesses, he will provide a much-needed competitiveness in practice, as well as giving opponent's guards fits.

TIM DEMAR: Tim DeMar comes to the Gulls after a successful tenure at Anne Arrundel Community College. As the number two guard or small forward, DeMar excells as a defensive player and a rebounder. After adjusting to the Gull system, his aggressive play should be a valuable assett.

ANDRE FOREMAN: Andre Foreman is one of the most prized recruits to attend Salisbury State in a long while, and should be an immediate impact player. He possesses the skills to be a good defensive player, shooter, passer, rebounder and ball-handler. Once Foreman adapts to college, he will be able to perfect his skills to become an excellent college basketball player.

JAY JOHNSON: Jay Johnson is a aggressive rebounder who should adapt well to the college game. He is improving his offensive skills and learning how to adjust defensively. Combining those factors with his attitude and his endless desire, and he should be a force to be reckon with inside.

BILL LEWITT: Bill Lewitt is a talented shooter, who also has insights into the defensive concepts of the game. A split end on the Gull football team, Lewitt is a late-comer for basketball. Yet, as time passes, his adaptation to the Gull style of play, will determine his role this year.

JOHN RHOADES: John Rhoades' intensity and his burning desire to play hard has made him into a tough and strong inside player. He can score either inside or outside, as well as on the break, and as long as he keeps his emotions under control, without taking away the intensity of his game, he will be a dominant force.

RICK SHEETS: Rick Sheets is the only senior on this year's team, as well as being team captain. Last year as the team's Most Valuable Player, as well as the winner of awards for defense and hustle, he led the Gulls in scoring, steals, assists and charges taken. He is 28th on the Gulls all-time scoring list, as well as seventh on the assist list. He also holds the Gull record for assists in a game with 19 against Spring Garden last season. And while his numbers and accolades speak for themselves, his most outstanding contributions have been his gritty determination and constant all-out effort.

STEVE SPAULDING: Steve Spaulding is one of, if not the best pure shooter that the Gulls have. He has a great attitude and work ethic which should enable him to adapt to the Salisbury State style of play. Offensively, with the increase of playing time, and his ability to bury the three-pointer, his confidence and production should also increase.

RUSSELL SPRINGMANN: Russell Springmann gained valuable experience during his freshman season, during which he became a crowd favorite. He is a very fundamental basketball player, who with added playing time, could become a top-quality passer and a tenacious defender.

DANNY TREGONING: Danny Tregoning is back playing competitive basketball after sitting out a year. He is a very hard worker who excells on the boards. Even though he sat out a year, his skills continue to improve , and he will begin to be more of a factor with his increased playing time.

Season: (.750) 1975-76

1987-88 Salisbury State Women's Player Profiles

DIANE BICKFORD: Diane Bickford has begun to blossom into a very good second guard. As a freshman, she played in 18 of the Gulls' 27 games. Bickford is an excellent passer, especially on the fast break, an excellent defensive player, and on offense, can drive to the basket with the best of them.

KIM BURTON: Kim Burton is called "Joe Rebound" by her teammates. And with good reason. In her first two years of play for the Gulls, she has averaged 3.8 rebounds a game and 81 a season. Although she doe not possess blazing speed, she always seems to be in the right place at the right time.

PHYLLIS COLEMAN: Phyllis Coleman may be the most aggressive and tenacious player to her opponents. She is always hounding her opposition, and is always in position to play tough defense. As a freshman, she played in 19 games. However, her greatest assett may not be realized until this year, the first year of the three-pointer in women's college basketball.

JAMEY GRISWOLD: Jamey Griswold is a consistent all-around player, who works harder than anyone on the team. She is always back on defense, and is always ahead on the fast break. Hitting 57 percent of her field goal attempts during her first two years, Griswold not only possesses a great deal of talent, but also a lot of court sense.

CHRISTEN HAWTIN: Christen Hawtin is one of three senior on the Gulls. She is an excellent player in the paint, and moves very well, both to the ball and to the basket. She scored 77 points and pulled down 77 rebounds in her first year of play, last season,and this year should be the first forward off of the bench.

CHRISTINE IVISON: Christine Ivison is a freshman transfer to Salisbury from UMBC. A 5-8 forward, she has a good shot with a quick release. She also seems to have unlimited court sense, a top-notch passing ability and the knack for grabbing rebounds, although she will be used as a small forward.

CONNIE IVISON: Connie Ivison is the twin sister of Christine, both of whom transferred to Salisbury State following the fall semester at UMBC. Connie, at two inches shorter than Christine will be used more at a guard position, as she, like Christine, has good court sense and passing ability, although Connie may be a better ball-handler.

SANDY JANKEVICIUS: Sandy Jankevicius, as a freshman, averaged 11.3 points per game, to go with 171 assists, and a school record for steals in a season with 77. Her stats speak for the type of player she is--a good passer, defensive standout, and ball-handler, who is a true point-guard, maybe one of the best to play for the Sea Gulls in a long time.

LISA JONES: Lisa Jones is a sophomore guard who is playing in her first season for Salisbury State. She is a very quick and aggressive ball-player, who can play either a small forward or a big guard, and will always go after the loose balls.

BERNADETTE LAIRD: Bernadette Laird is a junior who is playing her first season of basketball for the Gulls. As a guard, she possesses what every top-notch guard should have-the talent to make good passes, especially outlet passes and the potential to be a very good ball-handler. She is also always back on defense.

VICKI MILLER: Vicki Miller is a freshman guard who has already tasted the fruits of success from sports at Salsibury State, having a very important role on the field hockey team that finished third in the Nation. She is very good on defense, especially in a man-to-man situation. She has the potential to be an excellent passer and has the court sense to pick up plays and situations very quickly.

SHARI RUPERTUS: Shari Rupertus is a freshamn guard, who for a freshman is a very relaxed and collected ball player. On the court she seems to take control of a situation and has the court sense of a veteran.

MYRA STURGIS: Myra Sturgis is strong, quick and aggressive. In her first three years of playing for the Gulls, she has amassed 918 points and 574 rebounds. A durable player, she has missed only one game in her three seasons. She is a good passer, an excellent shooter, and an aggressive rebounder. As an outstanding all-around player, her greatest assett might well be her court leadership.

DAWN WEBB: Dawn Webb, after two seasons, is on a pace for career totals exceeding 1,000 in both points and rebounds. Entering her junior year, she is averaging in double figures in both, with 534 points and 513 rebounds in 51 games. She is very strong going to the basket and can go up with her right or her left hand equally as well. She is a quiet leader who has the prettiest shot on the team.

KIMBERLEE WHITEHEAD: Kimberlee Whitehead is a very strong rebounder and post-up player. During her freshman year, she shot 48 percent from the field and 65 percent from the line, and came in off of the bench to pull down three rebounds a game. She moves to the ball very well and is a strong center off of thebench.
